Authorization to perform surgery and/or medical treatment

I understand that some risks always exist with anesthesia or surgery, and I am encouraged to discuss any concerns I have about these risks with the attending veterinarian before the procedures are initiated. I will not hold the doctor or staff responsible under any circumstances. I assume all risks.

There are certain measures, detailed below, that can be taken to minimize the risks during anesthesia and/or surgery. Although we retain the right to do whatever is necessary for the health and welfare of your pet in the case of an emergency, we give you the opportunity to choose certain diagnostics and precautions at this time. If neither consent nor decline is marked, we will not perform the procedure.

Pre-anesthetic Blood Test

Pre-anesthetic blood testing is highly recommended by the veterinarian for all patients undergoing anesthesia. This procedure checks red blood cells, white blood cells, potassium, sodium, and chloride, as well as tests to check for possible liver and kidney problems.

The cost for this service is $68.00

Intravenous Catheter and Fluids

With the exception of extremely short procedures, anesthesia results in lowered blood pressure, and circulation to vital organs. Intravenous catheterization allows us to administer fluids, which will help maintain blood pressure, and also provides us with rapid venous access should we need to administer emergency medications.

The cost for this service is $111.04
